FARMVILLE

I passed Prospect on the train recently and took a long, lingering look and at the same time regretted that I could not make it a suburb of Farmville, or one of the wards of Farmville. I know of no place in Virginia where more of creature comforts reign. During the life time of Capt. Davis it was my privilege and pleasure now and then to be entertained in that hospitable and delightful Southside Virginia home, and after his death Mrs. Davis continued to dispense a hospitality as generous as it was gracious.

The travelling men of Virginia and of other states unite in saying that Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Glenn furnish the very best table anywhere to be found, and in this verdict the writer unites with emphasis and enthusiasm. I remember an early spring dinner in that home, some years ago, and though I have been banqueted in the largest cities of the land and in the most palatial homes, and most luxurious hotels, I have never tasted anything quite so delightful as was that fresh chicken and roast lamb, that 3-year-old Southside Virginia ham, that goose berry tart. The gods were not accustomed to such a feast. And then Prospect is not only a place of attractive homes, but an active business centre as well.

I suppose as much timber and bars have been shipped from that point as from any other depot on the N. & W. Much of this raw material should have been worked up at Prospect, but our Southern people have not been as alive to manufacturing industries as we should.

Mr. E. S. Taylor is one of the leading business spirits of Prospect as of the present day, and is one of the most extensive exporters of walnut to be found in the entire country. Of course his operations are not confined to this section of Virginia, nor to the state of Virginia, but wherever a walnut tree is to be found, he or his agent will be sure to find it. He uses the cablegram as other business men use the telegram. He whispers across the seas as neighbor whispers to neighbor and keeps in close and sympathetic touch with the markets of the world. Great is Prospect!

That new pest in the shape of a bug has been giving our farmers some concern as well as those of Kentucky and Tennessee. Just imagine that the bugs should destroy all the tobacco of earth and some other agency destroy all "bug juice" of earth, would'nt we all have a "good time?" No tobacco, no whiskey, "nor mixtures thereof," and that would mean millenium, or something refreshingly near to it. But so many good people love whiskey, good or bad, that the problem of managing it has yet to be solved. The New England States are tired of prohibition, South Carolina is sick of the dispensary system, while most men agree that the bar room is an unmixed evil.

If we are to have a repetition of such spring weather as we have been having during the spring of 1907 our merchants will hereafter be wise to buy winter and summer goods and no spring prints. One of my friends has the habit of making changes in his dress on the 15th of May, and this year he observed his rule and before the evening of the 16th was looking for a fire and feeling for his winter garb. The "oldest inhabitant" hardly recalls anything just like it.

Politics are dull with us. Nobody seems to want "nothing." Maybe the "dear people" will have to represent themselves, and if so it may be as true of them as of the individual, "if you want a thing well done do it yourself." If all of us could spend the winter in Washington or Richmond what a "high old time" we could have.

Farmville never presented a more attractive appearance than just at present. Her side walks and streets are in good order, her business structures were never better, her homes are far superior to those of bygone days, while her churches are among the very best in the commonwealth.

None of our merchants are complaining of dullness in trade, and our banks are increasing and prospering.

Saturdays continue to be our "red letter" business days.

There are "hot times" at some of the meetings of our town Council. Men will differ as to town improvements as about other things. Still town improvements go on and will go on.

Mr. Serpell, the owner of the Randolph, is one of our new citizens and one of commendable public spirit. He has not only greatly improved his hotel property but offers to aid the town in improving its surroundings.

Mr. Garnett, the new postmaster, now wants a new postoffice building and it looks as though he would succeed. If Mr. Lassiter would have the unanimous vote of Farmville for re-election, he would do well to secure for us a government building. But maybe we are not "big" enough for that.

I was under the impression that a dispensary could only sell over its own counter, but I read in last week's Herald that they are ready to go wherever the money invites, that is that liquors are to be parties at a distance on receipt of the order and the money. But what would be the result if the order was sent by a minor? It does look to me that a dispensary should sell as little of the stuff as possible and to as few people as possible. If it is a mere money-making machine it should not be allowed to run for a day. There ought not to be two opinions as to this.

Where the fruits are to get their sweetness from this season and where the grain is maturing, I don't understand. The May now closing must be the one that married December.

Good Words for Chamberlain's Cough Syrup.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catherine, who is two years old, has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever."

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain and lame from it my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Compulsory Education! The Richmond papers say that this is a subject to come before the next legislature, and a recent editorial in one of them advocates the passage of a bill allowing the voters in each district to vote on the question; in other words to establish local option on the subject. How a law making it compulsory for patrons of the public schools to send their children to school would work, would greatly depends upon the wording of such a law, for instance, 1st, if pupils of all (school) ages and of both sexes are required to attend the full session say of nine months, this would mean the taking of the big boys before the crops are housed and wheat seeded in the fall. 2nd, it would mean for the poor man to send his children whether he could buy clothes and shoes for them or not. We admit that the poor classes of people have not done their duty in regard to sending their children to school, they have not done near so well as have the negroes, but the man who frames a measure on this subject will be a genius if he can so arrange this proposed law as to work well as regards attendance at school, and work no hardship to anyone. Of course there will be a clause that will let out those who can employ private teachers, so as usual the moneyed people will be least affected. I think, however, as a local option measure it can do little harm. If we don't want it we can vote it down.

This brings to mind another subject often left to local option—the sale of whiskey. You know fellow-county-men an attempt will be made to establish a dispensary in our peaceful, quiet county. The profit from the sale of whiskey will work the roads, &c. Well, maybe so, but what kind of a road do you want? One built with blood money? I hope not. I saw the beautiful sidewalks in Farmville, but listen, some one there said she felt as if they were mixed with blood, and if so, whose blood. Perchance that of your son or mine. I told a Farmville man, you sell our farmer boys whiskey and build your streets and sidewalks with the profit. Yes, said he, if your boys will drink the whiskey we will use the money. That is just it, fellowmen, don't let the whiskey be for sale here, and our boys will seldom go all the way to Farmville to get it. What kind of life do men lead who sell whiskey? Do you know what kind of death those die who sell it? There are just 2 sides to the liquor question. The right and the wrong. Which side are you on?

Sheppards.

A. & B. TIMES: "Uncle Van" is right, the TIMES is the best local paper of the whole bunch. It contains more Farmville news than the Farmville paper, more Buckingham news than the Buckingham paper and more Appomattox news than any of them. I congratulate it on its success.

But what shall I say about the news from Sheppards? for there is'nt any. Nobody has died or married, although I hear that there will be a marriage near Sheppards in the next few days.

The Children's Day exercises at Smyrna church were observed on last Sunday, but owing to the inclement weather, and the absence of ten of the children who were to take part, the recitations were not quite up to the usual standard. The music was as good as usual, and the collection fairly good.

Quite a number of candidates for office have visited our people, but with what result remains to be seen.

Every Man His Own Doctor.

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for the class of ailments. Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. Chamberlain's Remedies have been in the market for many years and enjoy a good reputation.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm (an antiseptic liniment) for cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, swellings, lame back and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's Salve for diseases of the skin.

One bottle of each of these five preparations costs but $1.25.

The few young men in Hixburg who remain in single blessedness, are preparing for the summer campaign. They are replenishing their supply of horses and having their buggies repaired. They are very wise, in that a nice horse and buggy is a potent factor in a matrimonial contest.

Messrs. W. L. Ford and J. R. Hughes attended the Confederate Reunion in Richmond. We can scarcely realize that so young a man as Mr. Ford actually fought in the war forty-two years ago. It certainly brings to our minds the pathetic side, that so many young boys were brave enough to want to fight for what they thought to be right. We hope that the young men of this generation will be as prompt and eager to defend the right as their fathers were. Although the north and south are being welded together, still we remember the hardships our kinsmen had to endure.

Hollywood

We have been having very cold weather for May. And if there is anything in the old proverb, "A cool May for a fine crop of wheat," it will certainly be a fine crop of wheat this time.

The copious rains of Friday and Saturday of last week afforded our farmers an opportunity to set out tobacco, and many took advantage of it. Scarcity of labor and the partial failure of plants will greatly reduce the acreage to be put in tobacco this year.

Fruit is very scarce throughout the community. The weather keeps so cool I guess what fruit is on the trees will fall off and rot.

Mr. James A. Beasley, of Lynchburg, was down visiting relatives Saturday before last.

Mrs. Fannie Woolridge, of Lynchburg, is visiting her children in the neighborhood.

Mr. Tom Turner and daughter were visiting in Buckingham last week.

Mr. John Begby attended the Reunion in Richmond last week.

We are sorry to report the extreme illness of Mrs Fannie Turner.

Mr. Jesse Franklin had the misfortune to lose one of his best horses last week.

The veteran that attended the Reunion in Richmond from this community were as follows: Messrs. H. C. Turner, Tom Turner, H. P. Harvey, Thos. Harvey, J. F. Dickerson and C. C. Ferguson.

Miss Clem Ferguson is visiting in Lynchburg this week.

On account of the inclement weather we didn't have any Sunday School here Sunday.

We are sorry to report the death of Mrs. Martha Franklin which occurred on the 22nd of May at her home, and she was interred in the family burying ground. She was a pious woman and has been a constant member of this church here for several years. She had been afflicted with that dreadful disease, rheumatism, for several years. She leaves a husband and several children to mourn their loss. "Blessed are those that die in the Lord."

Bent Creek.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—As I have a yoke from my Hip Van Winkle nap and realize the fact that the friend who has been sending such nice long letters in my place has left us and I cannot take another such a long snooze, I'll try and write, but my letter will not amount to much as news is scarce.

Not much complaint of a drouth just now. The rain fell in torrents through this section Saturday, causing the smaller streams to rise very high and doing much damage. Davids' Creek was higher than it has been for five years. The water washed the land dreadfully, some of the corn on its bank will have to be planted again, while some places where corn was only just peeping are bare. Some of the farmers faces are long, but they will weather it some way for there are still plenty of railroad ties. James River is on a rise now, but we hope it may not do much damage.

Mrs. W. N. Turner closed her school Friday. Notwithstanding the bad day most of her scholars were present, each one carried home a souvenir given them by their teacher. The school progressed nicely, and all seemed anxious for her to teach again for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Woody lost their little infant on the 20th of May, age about four months. It had been sick all its life.

Mr. William Childress and family have moved near Gladstone. Mrs. Childress will be missed in the Sunday school. She was always at her post of duty where Sunday school work was concerned, and that is something that can be said of very few, the writer not excepted.

Mrs. W. N. Turner returned to her home in Lynchburg Sunday. She too will be missed in the Sunday-school. She had many warm friends in this neighborhood who hate to see her leave and hope she will soon return.

Miss Sallie Sanderans, of North Carolina, is now has been teaching for Mrs. Kirby Smyth, will return to her home this week. She has made many friends while in Appomattox.

Little Ruth Brown is still at her grandmother's, Mrs. Mary A. Dixon.

Mrs. Sam Meginson is quite sick at her home near Glenfall. Her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Beal, is staying with her.
